Alabama Slammer

The Alabama Slammer was born at the University of Alabama. It is a potent concoction of Sloe Gin, Amaretto, Southern Comfort and orange juice.

Fuzzy Navel

One of the first drinks to arise in the new popularity of cocktails in the 1980's. A perfect mix of Peach Schnapps and orange juice

Black Russian

A mix of Vodka and Kahlua, this cocktail was created in Belgium in honor of Perle Mesta, the US Ambassador to Luxembourg. It owes its name to the dark period of the Cold War with the Soviet Union.

Mai Tai

Created in San Francisco's East Bay in 1944, by a legendary California restaurateur, the late Vic Bergeron of Trader Vic's fame. A mix of light rum, dark rum, fruit juices and grenadine.

Bloody Caesar

A cocktail made popular in Canada by Calgary bartender Walter Chell. A mix of Vodka and Clamato Juice spiced just right.

Tom Collins

This drink is not named after anyone named Tom. The name was used because the drink was originally made with Old Tom Gin. A mix of gin, lime and lemon juices plus soda water.

Brown Cow

The "Adult Chocolate Milk." The Brown Cow is a mix of Kahlua and milk.
